CINCINNATI, MONDAY MORNING, AUGUST 27, 1860-

Mr. Bancroft has so long stood at the ceived so much praise, that an adverse criticism of his writings strikes one as strange; yet a critic in the New York World, of late date, says:

yet a critic in the New York World, of late date, says:

Bancroft can not be adjudged a great historian. To his industry, zeal and honesty fall credit should be given. He is clear, interesting and anecdotal, and exercises a fair discrimination in the selection of facts. He has accumulated, in his researches, many circumstances, both direct and correlative, which will be new to those who are not familiar with the authorities from which he has drawn his information; and as this is the larger class, he has done service in arranging and condensing so considerably the great mass of facts which has accumulated in American history.

But the hand of a philosophic historian is not visible in his labors. The majestic stride of genius, the great grasp, the prophetic and philosophic power which "characterize the minds that feel the riddle of the world and may help to narravel it," are not there. In their place we see only a perception of proximate causes, a feeble tracing of great events back for a pace or two, a view circumscribed by the very precincts of the path which the relator travels. The history of America is a filament of the long warp of time, and has relations with the first causes and the final issue of all things. A recognition of this fact, at least, should qualify its historian. "Well-written history," said Daniel Webster, "must always be the result of genius and taste, as well as of attainment. It stands next to epic poetry in the productions of the human mind. If it requires less of invention than that, it is not behind it in dignity and importance." TRAINS ARRIVE.

CRIMINAL PUNISHMENT IN ENGLAND HALP A CENTURY AGO SINGULAR DESIGN TO RENDER A YOUNG DESPERADO REPRINTANT. A CENTURY AGO—SINGULAR DEBIGN TO RENDER A YOUNG DESPENDED REPENDENT A. A boy, not sixteen, was hanged for murder at Wisbeach, England, July 13, 1897, and we notice his case on account of the very extraordinary expedient used to render him penitent prior to his execution. This boy had committed a most atrocious murder at Whittlesea, by killing a child, aged twelve, in revenge for the child's mother having accidently thrown some water over him. The hardened young wretch threatened to murder the clergyman who attended the jail, and any one clase who dared to approach him; and so ferocious was his conduct, that it was necessary to chain him down, hand and foot, in his dungeon, and even then he behaved in a frightful manner.

At length, to prevent the termination of his existence in this deprayed state, the expedient was devised of procuring a child about the size of the one murdered, and similar in feature and dress, whom two clergymen unexpectedly led between them by the hands into his cell, where he lay, sulkily chained to the ground; but on their approach, he started, and seemed so completely terrified that he trembled in every limb, cold drops of sweat profusely falling from him, and was almost momentarily in such a dreadful state of agitation that he entreated the clergyman to continue with him, and from that instant became as contrite a penitent as he had been before callous and insensible.

At the meeting of the Commissioners of Public Charities of New York, the fact of a singular escape of a prisoner was disclosed.
Two Hawks—persons, not birds—both named Henry, had been committed on the 6th uitime, one for intoxication and the other for burglary. Upon entering the precincts of the Tombs, the burglarious Hawk answered for the drunken Hawk, and vice versa. The former was caged for five days, and then discharged, while the latter submitted to the imputation of being a burglar, until he was imputation of being a burgiar, until he was brought out for trial, when he established his identity, and was discharged. Stepswere taken by the Commissioners to prevent such incidents in future.

RECONCILIATION OF THE FRENCH EMPEROR AND PRINCE NAPOLEON, -A correspondent of Wm. B. Astor, of New York, is stated to AND PRINCE NAPOLEON.—A correspondent of the Independence Belge writes from Paris. "The slight misunderstanding between the Emperor and Prince Napoleon, which followed the death of Prince Jerome, is now at an end. The Palais Royale (in which there had been a talk of providing apartments for Marshal Valliant) will be exclusively devoted to the Prince, who will not now go to live at his villa in the Avenue Montaigne. It is rumored that out of the million-a-year donation which Prince Jerome enjoyed, 200,000f, will be paid to Prince Napoleon, and the remaining 800,000f, to the Imperial Prince. It will be remembered that the civil list settled on Prince Napoleon at the time of his marriage was 600,000 francs."

SEVERITY OF THE DROUTH IN SOUTH JERRY. The farmers in South Jersey have suffered severely from the late drouth. The high anticipations occasioned by full crops of grass, wheat and oats, of an abundant year, were eradicated by the long-continued dry weather. In Mannington, Salem County, they have been foddering their cattle, while in Upper-Penn's Neck the corn has been cut up as worthless, except for fodder. The sweet potato crop has also been materially injured by the drouth, and on this account it will fall short several thousand bushels. A calf jumped through the window of a lager-beer saloon, in Cleveland, the other day, and alighted on a billiard table, seri-ously interfering with the game.

DEATH OF A PHYSICIAN FROM A FLY-BITE.—
A physician named Fredlander died in Chicago, Illinois, the other day, after a most distressing illness, caused as it was believed, from being bitten in the face by a fly that had brought poison communicated from the carease of a poisoned dog, such as are too numerously lying about town. No modifications are too numerously lying about town. No modifications are too to the contraction of the carease of a poisoned dog, such as are too numerously lying about town. No modification of the carease of a poisoned dog, such as a retoo numerously lying about town. No medi-cal remedies availed any thing, and so fear-ful were the effects of the disease, that a few hours after the breath had left his body the friends were forced to hurry his remains into

Two boys, imitating Blondin, walked and performed many gymnastic exercises upon a rope stretched across the Canal, at Zanes-ville, the other day. EXPULSION OF FREE NEGROES FROM VIRGINIA.—The Martinsburg (Va.) American and Gazette says some fifty free negroes were arrested there last week and imprisoned as vagrants, but owing to some informality, were discharged. At the last County Court there was an order passed notifying all free negroes who have recently come into this county from other counties, to leave within ten days from date of order. There seems to be a determination on the part of our citizens to get rid of all the free negroes among us. A cigar-shaped wherry is among the cu-riosities of the Nonparell Boat Club, Boston. It is about thirty feet long, and is constructed after the model of Winans's steamer.

INVENTION FOR TRIMBING BOOKS.—An invention has just been patented for trimming books which promises to be very useful. By the present machine but one side of a book can be trimmed at a time. The new machine will trim both ends and the side at one time, thus saving two-thirds of time and labor now required. It is also stated that the cost of the machine will only be one-half that of the machine now in use.

Most Cowardly Murder in Gronela.— James R. Lowe and Needham Arnold had a knife fight in Morgan, Georgia, recently, They were separated, and Lowe went to a physician to have his wounds dressed, and while under the doctor's bands, Arnold en-tered and plunged his knife into Lowe's breast, also cutting two awful gashes in his neck, causing death in a few minutes. Arnold attempted to escape, but was cap-tured.

The Chinese are our antipodes, not only in geographical position, but they do many things in a manner directly the reverse of our own. They shave the hair from the head, instead of that of the face, after they reach manhood. The lather-brush looks like a tooth-brush, and they lather with reach manbood. The lather-brush looks like a tooth-brush, and they lather with warm water only, without soap. They not only always wash and bathe in hot water, but will also drink warm water in preference to cold. They begin at the end of a book to read, and read from the top to the bottom, beginning at the right hand, instead of across the page and beginning at the left. Explanatory notes are always at the top of the page instead of at the bottom. The title of a book is always on the outer margin instead of at the top. The leaves are all doubled and printed on one side, instead of being single and printed on both.

The pupils in schools study as foudly as they can scream, instead of silently, and in reciting stand with the back to the teacher, instead of the face. They locate the seat of intelligence in the stomach, instead of in the head. In salutation, they each shake their own hands instead of the others. With them the magnetic needle is always said to point to the south; and in naming the four cardinal points they say east, south, west, north. Instead of south east and north-west they always say cast-south and west-north. Matting is used for mattresses, instead of on floors, and they use hard pillows (some times a block of wood), instead of soft. Long nails are ornamental—if three or four inches, they are quite an aristocratic length. They put the given name, or the title by which you are called, after the family name, instead of before it. So it would be Smith Mr., instead of four hat in the house. They plaster and whitewash buildings on the outside oftener than on the inner.

THE PRINCE OF WALKS' PASSION FO WALTEING-HE FALLS DOWN AND DRAGS HIS PARTNER AFTER HIM .- The New York Her-The Prince opened the ball with Madame Langevin and Mrs. Justice Curran vis-s-vis. The Prince wore his usual uniform. Miss Irvine, daughter of Colonel Irvine, was the Prince's second partner for a polka. She was dressed in a magnificent white dress, with wreaths of flowers. The Prince was in great good humor, and talked with every body who wore a uniform, especially a little middy, who will be the Tommy of the suite when they reachlnew York. The little middy generally chooses the largest women for partners, and the contrast seems to give peculiar delight to the Prince.

The Prince danced twenty-two out of twenty-four dances. He missed one, being at supper, and the other because he had started for the supper-room. He came back hearing a sweet walts playing, and while dancing a walts, he slipped and fell heavily on the floor, dragging his partner, Madame Cartier, the wife of the Canadian Premier, over him. Neither of them was injured, and the lady so quickly that but few in the room knew of the occurrence. He spologized to Madame C., and continued the dance. ald correspondent says of the ball at Quebec:

THE INCONVENIENCE OF THE PARCELING OF LAND IN FRANCE.—The inconvenience of parceled morsels of landed property strike the eye at once. They are most visible in the fertile regions, where the possibility of obtaining a living by spade labor has availed itself most largely of the law of equal partition. The soil of the entire country is said to be de-narted into 125,000,000 parcels. Calculating the population at 26,000,000, there are three parcels and a half to each person! What is this but another phase of what may still be seen in Ireland, where, in the difficulty of apportioning a small farm equally on the death of the holder, his children have endeavored to satisfy equity by allotting each other several pieces of various quality, so that no one's lot is altogether, but scattered up and down here and there. The French now seek some remedy at the hands of their Legislature against this indefinite process of morseling, and in the hope of seeing how their neighbors, similarly inflicted, may contrive—not, indeed, to turn the patched coat of their contributions. nope of sceing how their neighbors, similarly inflicted, may contrive—not, indeed, to turn the patched coat of their country into a new garment, yet to effect some consolidation of the patches—they look eagerly for an initiative to the neighboring States of the German Rhine, which are suffering from the same evil, and are seeking to heal it.

Over-Loyal Printers and Publishers. We have alluded already to the grand review of Scottish troops by Queen Victoria at Helyrood. On the morning of the parade, the Glasgow Hersid appeared haif its usual size, in consequence of the irrepressible loyalty of some thirty of its compositors, who, being volunteers, deemed it their duty to join thair beathers in the great demonstration. being volunteers, deemed it their dusy being volunteers, deemed it their dumonstration. Another Scottish newspaper, for a similar reason, took time by the forelock, and issued its weekly publication a day earlier than usual! One hardly knows here which to admits the more—the business enterprise of the

A SUNKEN VESSEL RAISED WELLS AT SE-BASTOPOL.—The American company engaged to raise the sunken fleet at Sebastopol, have lately brought alongside the wharf the sixty-gun frigate Koolefchi—the vessel whose masts have for so many years stood upright in the center of the harbor. The Koolefchi weighs 4,500 tuns. She is in good condition, and is the first frigate ever raised whole. Mr. Goweni, of Boston, is the chief of this American company, and he has contributed not a little to the credit of "Yankee enterprise," by his ability and perseverance in the important and arduous task he has andertaken to perform.

An Anti-Administration Pasyon,—It is the custom of the Long Island Republicans to open their meetings with prayer. A venerable clergyman, says the New York Reming Post, called upon to perform this service at the dedication of the Wigwam at a few evenings since, embraced in his fervent petition the following by no means complimentary allusion to the present Administration: "O Lord! thou knowest that some times the vilest of the ville attain the high places of power, and that we, as a people, are now undergoing a bitter experience in this respect."

A NEWLY-MARRIED HUSBAND MURDERCUSLY A NEWLY-MARRIED HUBBAND MURDERLUBLY JEALOUS.—The other night, at Brooklyn, N. Y., Stephen Leonard attempted to stab his wife, to whom he had been married only five days. He charged her with loving another man, and she frankly replied that she did love another, and that she could never love him. Then out came the knife, followed by the wife's flight from the house, and his arrest soon afterward.

As Orium Sausglas Repertant,—A late importer of opium in India has contributed 5,000 rupees, to be distributed among four missionary societies laboring in China, being part of the proceeds of his former employment, which he had resigned in consequence of conscientious objections at having been connected with supplying the Chinese with so permicious a drug.

LOVE DESCRIBED BY A PHILOSOPHER.—The first symptoms of love in the wisest of the world's philosophers were certainly very remarkable. "Leaning," says Socrates, "my shoulder to her shoulder, and my head to here, as we were reading together in a book, I felt, it is a fact, a midden sting to my shoulder, like the biting of a flex, which I still felt above five days after, and continual itehing crept into my heart."

In China, it is a strong mark of filial regard for a son to buy a coffin as a present to his father, while yet living. On presenting it, he says, "may you live ten thousand years!"

his father, while yet living. On presenting it, he says, "may you live ten thousand years!"

When a man becomes able, one of the first articles of furniture he buys for himself, is his coffin! It is often used as a bench or table for years. When it becomes fenanted it is frequently kept in the house for many years longer, instead of being taken out and buried; and when thus taken out, it is often placed on the surface of the ground, instead of beneath it. The inscription is always on the end of the coffin, instead of on top. They wear white for mourning, instead of black. At funerals women must weep, even if they are not grieved; men must not, if they are not grieved; men must not, if they are, More lasterns are carried at the time of the full moon that any other.

Among us, young men and young women choose for themselves and do their own courting, when they become grown (and sometimes before); in China, this is all done for them by their parents while they are infants. With us, ladies have the preference, with them, gentlemen. We educate and honor our wives, sisters and daughters, and bring them forward in society; they degrade theirs, keep them in ignorance and out of sight. Women have their feet always bound, their waists, never. The circumference of their dress is greatest at the waist and least at the ankles. They wear their breast-pins on the forehead. The young lady goes to the residence of her betrothed to be married, and she wais and weeps along the whole way to ber wedding. They always have feastings and music at funerals.

Frequency of Executions in Hugland in the Righteenth Century.

During the whole of the eightsenth cen-tury the English gallows bore profuse crops of awful fruit, and the hangman had inces-sant occupation. Six, ten, fifteen and even twenty men were hanged at one time and place. On the 23d of April, 1785, nineteen men were executed together at Newrates. men were executed together at Newgate, and not one for murder! Most were hanged for robberies and burglaries, and no less than three for returning from transportation before their time had expired. On the tion before their time had expired. On the 10th of November, the same year, eighteen were hung at Newgate, and not one for murder; and on December 1, nine more—all for offennes against property. It was an ancient custom for the beliman of St. Sepulcher's Church to go beneath the walls of Newgate on the night prior to the execution of condemaed convicts, and, ringing his bell, to recite certain admonitory lines, urging them to

That you may not i' sternal flames be sent."

The same ceremony was repeated on the morning of execution, the cart stopping before the church while the bellman again did his office. It was also customary for the eart to stop on its way to Tyburn, that the malefactors might be presented with a bowl of ale—their last draught on earth. A saddler of Bawtry lost his life in consequence of declining this refreshment; as, had he stopped, as usual, his reprieve, which was on the road, would have arrived time enough to save him.

ROPE-WALKING FOR A HUMANE PURPORE—A BOY'S LIPE SAYED BY A HEROIC CARPENTER.—The Buffalo (N. Y.) Republic gives the following account of an extraordinary exploit performed by John Stickell, a carpenter, who is engaged in building a mill: The building, a brick structure, was up to the equare; a number of neighbors, perhaps several hundred, had collected to assist in raising timbers; a rope was stretched across the building, near the middle, for some purpose or other; Stickell was on the brick wall near the rope, and a young man in his employ was on the wall at the opposite side of the building, at the end of the rope; the young man fell, and in fulling caught the rope, but was not able to raise himself, and, if some one had not hastened to his relief, he would have fallen sixty-two feet, into a cogpit, over which he was suspended. The crowd who witnessed the young man's perli seemed 'paralyzed. Stickell's attention was directed to the young man's situation by the murmur of awe from those below him, when, without a moment's hesitation, and without a balance-nole. he fearlessly walked the enwithout a moment's hesitation, and without a balance-pole, he feariessly walked the entire length of the mill on the rope, over the sixty-two feet chasm, and rescued the young man from an awful fate, amid the rapturous shouts of all present.

A Library-Loving Arrist.—When Stuart, the painter, died, an enlogium on his character appeared in one of the American papers, in which it was said that he left the brightest prospects in England and returned to his own country, from his admiration of her new institutions and a desire to paint the portrait of Washington. On hearing this, Sir Thomas Lawrence said: "I knew Stuart well, and I believe the real cause of his leaving England was, of having become tired of the inside of some of our prisons." Well, then," said Lord Holland, "after all, it was his love of freedom that took him to America."

THE MILLERITES STILL IN EXISTENCE.-The The Milleries Still in Existence.—The Millerites commenced their religious services on Monday, in North Wilbraham, Mass. The sect now numbers 50,000 in the United States and the Canadas, and they gather in camp meetings from nearly every State in the Union. A portion of the brethren look for the millenium before the last of March, 1861, others are confident that the world will last ten years and two months longer, while others still predict a universal overthrow in about sixteen weeks.

Territic Thunder-Sterns in Canada—A House Wreeked and a Man Stripped of His Clothes by Lightnian.

One of the most terrific thunder-storms which ever vinited Hamilton C. W., took place the other night, and lested till seven o'clock in the morning. The rais and lightning commenced at midnight, innesellately followed by heavy peals of thunder. Between two and three o'clock the lightning became extremely vivid, and the whole heavens appeared to be one sheet of fire, which in a few seconds would change into utter darkness. The terrific, crashing peals of thunder which followed struck terror into many a heart, causing several of them to rise from their alceping couches with fest. The whole scene while it lasted was fearfully grand. Several houses were more or less affected by the shocks, and in two or three instances some damage was done by the lightning.

In one case in particular, the inmates had a narrow escape from instant destruction. A man named Aynatis, who resides near Barton-street, was up lighting the fire, his wife and children being in bed, and while doing so, the house was struck by the electric fluid, which passed completely through it, leaving it a perfect wreck. The man was also struck by the electric fluid, which wholly stripped him of his garments, but, strange to say, he escaped with a slight scorching. His wife and children also falt the severity of the shock, but were uninjured. The house has the appearance of having been hombarded by cannon—both gable ends are stove in. All who heard or witnessed the storm agree in saying that it was the most severe they ever heard. It insted nearly eight hours.

GROVER & BAKER'S

The Mechanics Exhibition of the present year bids fair to excel all others in the extensive variety of new machinery offered for premium. It is now four years since the last industrial exhibition was held in Boston, and the interval of time has permitted a great exercise of the inventive genius of the country. This talent has been revealed in a luxurious growth of useful and valuable implements, many of which are intended to take from labor its heaviest burthers, and to expedite the the manufacture of many useful and ornamental articles, which are produced at lower rates, and thereby find purchasers in new markets.

The managers of the exhibition have notices from the inventors and manufacturers of about 100 machines, for many of which steam power will be required. The number of sewing-machines already entered is about thirty, comprising quite recent invention, not before exhibited. The machines for the manufacture of boots and shoes are both new and numerous, and the progress of invention applied to the mechanical arts will probably be as much shown in this as in any department of the exhibition. Applications have been received for the display and working of machines for printing, book-folding, turning, nall-cutting and botting—for the making of embroidery and button-holes—for washing, wringing and mangling.

Forty Thousand. We are led to believe that our endeavors to manufac-lure a reliable Machine have been appreciated. 'It take this opportunity to remark that this policy will remain unchanged, and that every Machine and to use we shall not hesitate to warrant in every respect. The Grover & Baker Family Machine has one at-vantage which is worthy of special attention, in ad-dition to the beauty, strength and elasticity of the editor, and that is, its elasticities to white.

REMARKABLE DECLINE OF THE CALIFORNIA THADE.—In no department of commerce has there been so great a decline shown as in the California trade for the past year, and especially since January, 1889. New York, that used to send her eight or ten ships per month, now sends three or four, and Boston averages now about two a month, instead of four, as formerly. In March, 1869, Boston sent one, in June one, in August one, in other months three, making an average of about two per month. Such is the condition and depression of the San Francisco markets, that even now we send too many ships, and two a month, or one each from Boston and New York, would be ample to supply all demands from that quarter.

Six months hence, when the great depression at San Francisco has passed off, and the stocks of goods now there have been consumed, not speculated upon and stored, we may look for a revival of this important business, which now for nearly two years has been so unfortunate to Atlantic shippers. California, with each succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of weather that the state of the succeeding year, will need less and less of the succeeding year, will need less of the succeeding year, will need less of the succeeding year, will need less of the succeeding year. A Mischinvous Monkey Commits Suicide. At Rochester, N. Y., a man named Shay has, for a week or two past, had on exhibition a collection of monkeys, snakes and sea-dogs. One of these monkeys, named Jack, was a mischievous fellow, and it required all the caution of the proprietor to keep him out of trouble. A group of animals, called the Happy Family, are kept in the show-window, which had doors on the inside, thus making it air-tight; and the family were thus left on Saturday night. Jack was up to his tricks, and some time during the night got to the gas pendant and turned on the gas, and on the proprietor looking after the family yesterday moraing, he discovered the monkey dead; he had been suffocated. The rest of the monkeys were very sick, but they recovered after air being admitted to them. No. 9 SEWING MACHINE.... PROBABLE MURDER OF A WIFE AND SUIGIDE OF MER HUSBAND.—A shocking affair occurred the other day in Rondout, N. Y., which has created considerable excitement. A man named John Crummy, residing in that village, entered his dwelling, and, without saying a word to his wife, who sat with her back toward him, approached her and drew a razor across her throat, inflicting a terrible wound. The poor woman sprang up, and, rushing out of the door, ran to her parents house, a short distance from her own. She was followed by her husband, who on the way cut his own throat. They were alive at last accounts, but it is doubtful whether either will recover. Cremmy and his wife are both young people, and have been married only about a year. 80 West Fourth-st., Cincinnati, Ohio. CALLAND EXAMINE IT. Scarcity of Provisions Among the Choctaws.—The Fort Worth (Texas) Chief states that "the Choctawa are about to'call on the General Government for assistance to procure provisions for the people of the Nation, as their crops have almost entirely been destroyed by the drouth. We learn from good authority that there will not be corn enough raised in the whole Nation to last them until Christmas, and as the appropriation of the money due the Nation failed in Congress last session, they are going to appeal to the Government for assistance in some shape to keep them from starvation." THELY abandoned building in the city and FRUIT RAISING IN GRORGIA.—The Augusta (Ga) Dispatch says: "No branch of agriculture has received more strention in the last few years than fruit-raising, and in mone has so much progress been made. The Atlantic cotton States are the paradise of fruit growers, and there is, perhaps, so country in the world, not even the tropical regions, which produces so great a variety of fruit, and so excellent of its kind. For peaches, grapes, melons, &c., our poil and climate are unsurpassed, and their abundance and cheapness in our markets cause astonishment to strangers from less favored climes."
